The public will therefore meet with the disappointments frequent on the former arrangement.

The cost of this establishment, has been considerable, and the Proprietors are sorry to say the proceeds arising from it are not sufficient to warrant the opening of it another season under the present limited patronage. It is however hoped that the new arrangement alluded to, together with a more extended knowledge of the great benefit arising from the use of Baths, in a place as this, will in a short time, procure more liberal encouragement.

Messrs. Bosler & Co.

Have just received from LEE'S PATENT and FAMILY MEDICINE STORE, New-York,

A FRESH SUPPLY OF THE FOLLOWING

GENUINE MEDICINES.

For the prevention and cure of Bilious and Malignant Fevers, is recommended

Hahn's Anti-Bilious Pills.

THIS MEDICINE has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings, in several parts of the West Indies, and the Southern and Middle States, particularly in New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Petersburgh, Norfolk, Edenton, Wilmington, Charleston and Savannah. The testimony of a number of persons in each of the above places can be adduced, who have reason to believe, that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives, when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favor of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy, founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed, presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventors has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these Pills, taken once in every two weeks, during the prevalence of our bilious fevers will prove an infallible preventative; and further, that in the earliest stages of those diseases, their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate, and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these Pills is perfectly mild so as to be used by persons in every situation, and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile, and prevent its morbid secretions; to restore and amend the appetite; to produce a free perspiration, and thereby prevent colds, which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold, if taken on its first appearance. They are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness, sickness at the stomach, and severe head-ache, & ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seamen.

HAMILTON'S Worm Destroying Lozenges,

Which have cured an immense number of persons of both sexes, of every age, and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from worms, and from obstructions of founess in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of, as operating with violence; on the contrary, a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent, and is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady, or the tenderest infant of a week old, should no worms exist in the body; but will, without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels, of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms, and many fatal disorders. The Lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

DESCRIPTION OF WORMS,
And the symptoms by which they are known:

Worms which infest the human body, are chiefly of four kinds, viz—The Teres, or large round worm; the Ascarides, or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitina, or short, flat, white worm; and lastly, the Fœnia, or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long, and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms, are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose; convulsions; epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food, and sometimes voracious; purging, with slimy and fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs, with lowness of spirits: slow fever, with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens.—It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative,

The proprietor of HAMILTON'S RESTORATIVE DROPS confidently recommends it as an invaluable medicine, for the speedy relief and permanent cure of

Nervous Disorders	Violent cramps in the stomach and back
Consumptions	Indigestion
Lowness of Spirits	Melancholy
Loss of Appetite	Gout in the Stomach
Impurity of Blood	Pains in the Limbs
Hysterical Affections	Relaxations, &c.
Inward Weaknesses

The principal operation of this medicine is in the stomach, restoring the digestive power, and sending from that organ new health and vigor into every part of the system; it enriches and purifies the blood without stimulating, too violently, the nervous system; strengthens the secretory vessels and general habits, brings back the muscular fibres to their natural and healthy tone; and restores that nutrition which immoderate evacuations have destroyed, and whose loss had thrown the whole frame into langour and debility.

The Restorative is absolutely above all commendation in removing those weaknesses and infirmities with which many females are afflicted, the consequences of difficult and painful labours, or of injudicious treatment therein.

In cases of extremity, where the long prevalence and obstinacy of disease have brought on a general impoverishment of the system, excessive debility of the whole frame, and a wasting of the flesh, which no nourishment or cordial could repair.

Perseverance in the use of this medicine has performed the most astonishing cures.

The Grand Restorative is prepared in Pills, as well as in a fluid form, which assists considerably in producing a gradual & lasting effect.

HAMILTON'S
ESSENCE & EXTRACT OF MUSTARD.

A safe and effectual remedy for Rheumatisms, Gout, Palsy, Sprains and Bruises, White Swellings, old Strains and Relaxations, Numbness and Weakness of the Neck, Pains of the Side, Headache, Swelled Faces, Frozen Limbs, and every similar complaint. It prevents Chilblains, or Chopped Hands, and the ill effects of getting wet or damp in the feet.

THE GENUINE PERSIAN LOTION,

So celebrated among the fashionable thro' out Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, (the basis of other Lotions) and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflammatory redness, scurfs, tetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c. The Persian Lotion operates mildly, without impeding the natural, insensible perspiration, which is essential to health, yet its effects are speedy and permanent, rendering the skin delicately soft and smooth, and improving the complexion.

THE RESTORATIVE POWDER,
For the Teeth and Gums.

This excellent preparation comforts and strengthens the gums, preserves the enamel from decay, and cleanses & whitens the teeth, by absorbing all the acrimonious slime and foulness, which, suffered to accumulate, never fails to injure and finally ruin them.

HAMILTON'S
ELIXIR FOR COUGHS,

Celebrated for the cure of colds, obstinate coughs, asthmas, and approaching consumptions, and a certain remedy for the whooping cough.

HAHN'S

READING.

I love to hear a piece so read,
That we, at every word that's said,
May know the reader feels it;
One who our whole attention gains,
Not by a multitude of pains,
But rather 'cause he steals it.

Not to himself but to his book,
Such reader rivets every look,
At least the intellectual;—
The orator's or poet's pen
Strikes then our hearts, and only then,
Makes every stroke effectual.

Without such reading, Gibbon, Hume,
And Robertson, in vain, presume
To please with style all studded;
Milton and Akenside, in vain,
Pour out their heav'n-imagined strain,
With strong effulgence flooded.

By quick rebound, still glowing hot,
We catch the rapture-sparkling thought
And set it in the bosom;
There treasured, every precious gem,
Which shone conspicuously in them,
We need not fear to lose 'em.

For should the recollection fail,
Whene'er we please, we may regale
Our fancies with a lecture;
Thus whilst their works enrich our shelves
We hold the authors to ourselves
By more than mere conjecture.

But oh! how disagreeable
To hear him read, who has to spell
Each word that he pronounces;
The awkward muliteer, just so,
To make his clumsy creature go,
The jade with cudgel trounces.

Some have a habit so perverse,
As at the start, to look as fierce
As a Virginian racer;
When in performance, grown less stout,
The Flying Childers lo! turns out
Like my aunt Rachel's pacer.

Some o'er the page so softly creep
As makes us think them half asleep,
Or fall, ourselves, to dozing;
Rhyme or not rhyme, their course they take
O'er the smooth surface of the lake
No rippling interposing.

Contrariwise some readers err,
Whose tongues are never known to stir
But off at once they gallop;
Disdaining to look once behind,
They drive along before the wind,
Like water in a wallop.

With misplaced emphasis, behold,
How badly oft a tale is told,
And desperately mangled;
The eloquence of Fox or Pitt,
And Sheridan's or Shakespear's wit,
Are whimpled and new-fangled.

Sometimes I leave the author's track
And turn, with these, (in jest) my back
Upon his murdered meaning:—
How pleasant then, by way of quiz,
To watch the reader's emphasis,
On prepositions leaning;

Lo! how significantly come
In heavy pomp the, to, and, from,
With all their little cronies;
Thus stiffened into cavalcade
Quixottic knights and 'squires parade,
All mounted upon ponies

If dull monotonists invade
My sense of hearing, quite dismayed,
I rue the dire disaster:
When such kind entertainers read
E'en Cowper's Task's a task indeed—
Not Hercules's vaster.

The solemn whine, the cant, the drawl
Remind me of the hearse and pall
And dismal coffin-bearers;
But when bored by the nasal twang
The measured pause, and ding dong clang
I join the frightened starers!

Whatever 'tis Sulpicius reads
He takes but half the breath he needs,
By which it often follows,
That into twain he splits a word,
So that one half alone is heard,
And t'other half he swallows.

Thus economick folks contrive
From hand to mouth, thro' life to drive,
Just in the way I mention;
Altho' experience (we suppose)
To every nice observer shows
'Tis but a poor invention.

Over and over Curio chaws
The word that never leaves his jaws
Till it be stale and useless;
Tobacco-chewers, thus, we find,
Their morsel seldom cease to grind
Till it be wholly juiceless.

Decius, who loves to travel fast,
Inhales, Eolus like, a blast
To reach thro' half a chapter,
Then spurning every stop and stage,
He rattles, down-hill, o'er the page
As if in perfect rapture.

With the same proclamation cant
Grillus pursues his changeless rant,
Like a loud mouthing actor;
And, let the theme be what it will,
No one could, with superiour skill,
Be any how exacter.

For, be the matter grave or gay,
Grillus still drives one beaten way
Displaying every mood ill—
One set of gears he claps on each,
Whether John Gilpin, Chatham's speech,
Night Thoughts, or Yankey doodle.

Here ends our sketch. 'Twould be too long
Were we to swell it with the throng
Of stammerers and lispers;
Nor is it worth the poet's while
To tell, in this facetious style,
Who stutters, grunts, or whispers.

The adventures of Henry Bird.

HENRY BIRD, removed in 1797 from Frederick county, Virginia, where he was born in 1767, to the head waters of Sandusky, in the state of Ohio. He was accompanied by two of his neighbours, John Peters and Thomas Philips, in partnership with whom he had purchased a little tract of 60 acres of land. At that time there were no inhabitants within 8 or 9 miles of the spot they had chosen. The first thing they did was to build a log hut, with the assistance of their neighbours, who each bro't a bushel of wheat to support the new-comers until they could raise their own grain. Such is the custom in all these little frontier settlements, where necessity has revived many good old patriarchal customs, and established a neighbourly connexion among the first settlers that is not seen in other communities.

Here Bird lived till the year 1811, during which time he became the father of 5 children, and saw the country change from a wilderness inhabited by panthers, bears, buffaloes, wolves, and wild turkeys, to cultivated farms, belonging to sturdy, independent yeomanry. The first year he came, though no hunter, he killed 2 panthers, and had an irruption made into his pig-sty, which adjoined one end of his hut, by a bear, who carried off one of his best pigs. For a long time he was disturbed at night by the howling of wolves close under his windows; but as the country became cleared and more thickly settled, they gradually receded into the woods, and seldom came near the house. The Indians were all about them, and a friendly intercourse had long subsisted between Bird, and a warrior of the Shawanese tribe, called the Big Captain, who often came and slept at his house.

But after the battle of Tippecanoe, they all disappeared: and as this was a signal that they meditated revenge, the inhabitants gathered together, 2 or 3 families in a hut, that they might be the better able to resist any sudden attack. Bird's friends, Peters and Philips, came to his house with their families, because it was larger than theirs, having, as he says, "two fire places with a partition between." The whole number thus collected amounted to 19, 3 men, 3 women and 13 children, some of them quite grown up.

On the 17th of Oct. 1811, "just after day-light was gone," to use his own expressions, while Bird was lying down on the bed, his wife roasting a piece of buffalo, and Peters and Philips, with 3 of the daughters were sitting round the fire, 8 guns were discharged thro' the window, which killed the whole party at the fire, and wounded Bird in the hip with 2 balls. He sprung out of bed, but dropped on the floor, and at the same instant, the Indians, 18 in number, burst open the door with a horrible yell. Bird endeavored to climb up so as to reach one of four loaded muskets, which hung against the wall, but was followed by an Indian who struck him in the shoulder with his tomahawk. This blow brought him down, and the Indian cut and hacked away at his left side, which was uppermost, until he thought him quite dead. Then, having killed the whole 18, and being fearful that the firing might have roused the neighbourhood, they seized the 4 rifles, the Big Captain, gave the retreating war whoop; and they all retired to their canoes, which had been left at the head of a creek communicating with the waters of the Great Sandusky.

Here they lay until morning, when, finding all quiet, they returned to the house and fell to stripping the dead bodies, amounting to 18. When they had done this, they piled them up in the middle of the room. The Indians attempted to strip off Bird's hunting shirt of tow linen, and were going to scalp him and throw him on the pile with the rest, when the Big Captain came. Bird spoke to him by name, begged to be tomahawked, and told the captain "he never used him so when he came to see him." The Big Captain then, without making any reply, began to examine his wounds, which when he had done, he exclaimed with wonder, "that the great spirit would not let him die. I will carry you home and cure you," said he.

He ordered two Indians to put Bird in a blanket, and carry him down to his canoe, whither he followed him; and while the rest of the party were bringing down the plunder, dressed his wounds; for the Indians always carry with them materials for dressing wounds when they go to war. By this time they had loaded their canoes, and when the last party left the house, they set it on fire in order to burn the dead bodies, among which were Bird's wife and 5 children. This done, they went down the Sandusky into lake Erie, which they crossed and coasted down to the lower end, till they came to a creek the Indians called Yo-hoh; up which they proceeded about 14 miles, to the old Shawanese town. This was a distance of near 400 miles; during all this time the Big Captain dressed Bird's wounds with considerable skill, but handled him so roughly as to put him to very great pain. Bird thinks he remembers every thing that passed in this long lone transportation, and when I asked him about the state of his mind, said, "he was so taken up with his own pains that he had no time to think of his murdered family."

The Big Captain carried him to his own wigwam, where he lay 22 moons before he could walk with crutches. When he grew able, his business was to light the Big Captain's pipe, and fetch water for him. In this last occupation he sometimes met, at the spring, American white women, whose families mostly had been murdered, and who were now slaves to the Shawanese. One of these he knew; she had lived in Ohio, and her story was that of hundreds of others, whose husbands and children had been surprised at their firesides and murdered. Bird promised, should he ever live to escape, that he would give information of the fate of these unhappy women, whose number in this single village was 58, and who, doubtless have long been considered as dead.

The Indians are the most jealous and suspicious of their prisoners of any people in the world. One of them had observed this conversation, without overhearing it, and gave notice that there was a plot among the white slaves to run away. Bird and the poor woman were then brought before the Big Captain, and threatened with death if they did not confess their plots. He persisted in refusing to make any disclosures, and the Big Captain ordered his two thumb nails to be twisted off. Finding that Bird still refused to make any disclosures, he at last became convinced of his innocence, and by way of satisfaction, directed him to twist off the thumb nails of the accuser. This, however, he declined.

From the time that Bird left off his crutches he had meditated making his escape, although he was in general treated pretty well by the Big Captain, except when the chief was in liquor. At such times even his wife did not dare to come near him, for his passions were terrible, and he was accustomed to indulge them with impunity, because it is a law of the Indians, that a drunken person is not accountable for his actions. It is the liquour, & not the man that is to blame. In order to throw the Big Captain off his guard, Bird affected on all occasions to prefer being the slave of such a great warrior, to living among the white men, and working hard all day like a beast. "I lied," said Bird, "I don't deny it, but I thought it excusable in this case." The Big Captain, however, was very suspicious, and would never give him a chance to escape.

One evening in the latter part of February, when Bird had been near forty moons a prisoner, the Big Captain and his Lady both got very drunk, and as the rivers were now frozen, he resolved to take advantage of this circumstance to attempt gaining Detroit, or some other settlement of the whites. He had from time to time, by little and little, furnished his knapsack with a good quantity of jerked venison to serve him in his long journey. On the night of one of the last days of Feb. 1815, he left the Big Captain's wigwam, and took a direction as nearly south as possible, thro' the woods, in order to strike the shores of lake Erie. There was an Indian path to the lake, but he did not dare to take that, for fear of being overtaken by the Indians, should they discover his absence. It was a cold moonlight night, yet still he found much difficulty in keeping a direct course, and it was broad day light before he struck the lake. From thence he continued up the lake, until about 12 o'clock, and had got, as they told him afterwards, about 30 miles from the town, when he was seized by a party of 5 Indians, as he was sitting on a log, eating a piece of jerked venison. The Big Captain had discovered his flight at day-light, and set off with 30 men, divided into parties of 5 each, to scour the woods in every direction.

They tied his hands behind him, and drove him in this way about a mile, to a rising ground, where they fired off their guns, and lighted a fire, by setting fire to an old dry walnut tree, as signals for the other parties to come in. Here they passed away the night, during which time about one half of the parties had come in. The morning after, they drove Bird into the town, and a council was called to decide on what was to be done with him. It was concluded upon, that as he was determined not to stay with them, he should be "burnt three days." The famous Shawanese Prophet, brother to Tecumseh, was at this council; his opinions are of great weight with the Shawanese, as he is considered to speak the will of the Great Spirit. Bird has seen him often. He is about 50, very ill looking, and no warrior. He was continually exhorting the Indians to fight the Americans, and keep them away from their lands. The influence of the Prophet may be estimated by the fact that at one time he had prevailed upon some of the tribes to abstain from spirituous liquors; but they afterwards returned to their old habits.

The Big Captain came to tell Bird what they were going to do with him.—It was what he expected, and had made up his mind to it. About an hour after sunrise he was taken a little outside of the village to the war-dance ground, where he supposes 3 or 400 Indians had collected. They tied him down on his back, with his feet fastened to a stake, and the Big Captain seized a fire brand, which he held first against his hand, then against his arm, taunting him at the same time, by asking "if he intended to runaway again soon?" This was done by others in turn, for 13 different times, at intervals of half an hour, so that he might be susceptible to pain. The intervals were filled up with dancings, and expressions of contempt for white men. The louder he groaned, the louder they shouted, exclaiming, that "Indians never groaned, but the white man was no better than a woman." This ceremony continued till within about 2 hours of sunset, at which time the fingers of his right hand were almost consumed, and his arm burnt quite to the bone. I saw his hand and arm myself, or I could never have been brought to believe that human nature could have endured such long suffering.

At this time there came up one Randall M'Donald, a Scotch trader from Quebec. He had been all thro' that country, buying furs, and was now on his way home, with a caravan of 16 mules and 4 horses, loaded with skins: He was well known to the Indians, and offered to purchase Bird for a gallon of rum, which he told the Big Captain would afford them a much better frolick, than burning a poor white man. The bargain was struck—the Big Captain took the rum—Randall M'Donald, with his own hands cut Bird loose, put him on one of his horses, and set out immediately. They travelled all night, for fear the Indians would repent their bargain after drinking the liquor, and reclaim the poor burned victim. In 9 days, Bird and they reached Kingston; where Randall bought him some cloths, and got a surgeon to attend him. They staid 4 days at Kingston, and then went down to Quebec. All the time during this journey he was attended by Randall, who took him home to his house in Quebec, employed a surgeon, & he soon got well enough to be able to travel on foot. The good Scotchman then told him he might take his choice, either to remain with him or go home. Bird chose the latter; and Randall gave him money to carry him to the frontier, and sent him off with his good wishes. In these miserable times of national antipathies and savage warfare, it is gratifying to trace, in the conduct of Randall M'Donald, that steady, untiring benevolence, which adorns and exalts our nature. That he should have saved the prisoner at the stake, is a thing. But that he should carry him with him, and support him, through such a long, tedious journey, dress his wounds in the wilderness, afterwards take him to his home, and finally give him money to support him till he got to his own country, is what, I fear, few would have done under like circumstances. Let us then do honor to this benevolent Scotchman who saved one of our citizens from the stake, and sent him safe to his home.

The money given him by Randall M'Donald lasted Bird till he came to Vermont from whence to Washington he subsisted on the benevolence of his countrymen. In general he says he has little to complain of. His story almost always gained him food and lodging & with very few exceptions, he was seldom turned away from any man's door. Misery and poverty so seldom knock at the door of an American farmer, that his heart is not yet steeled to apathy by becoming familiar with distress. From the borders of Vermont, he traveled by land to Albany, where the Patron* got him a passage, free, to Egg-Harbour, and he says he thought his lady never would have done sending provisions on board the vessel for him. From Egg-Harbour he came across New Jersey to Delaware Bay, which he crossed to Jones's creek in the state of Delaware, whence he went to Haddaway's ferry, crossed the Chesapeake to Annapolis, and arrived at Washington the 5th day of July, 1815. His object in going there was to fulfil his promise to the woman of the old Shawanese Town. It is with pleasure I add, that he was admitted to an audience of the President, and that measures have been taken by the proper authority, to recover the unfortunate captives, should they be still alive.

I saw him, and enquired particularly into his story, which he repeated as I have given it, without variation or embellishment. There was a striking manliness in his deportment, and he told his tale with such an air of simple truth, that I could swear to every word of it. I asked if he had any objection to its being made public? He said none provided I did not make a fine story about him. He was going among some distant relations in Frederick county, who he said would take care of him as long as he lived, and he did not want them to think he wished to be the hero of a story. He had more than forty wounds—his shoulder was partly cut off, his thigh gashed with seams, his side scared with a tomahawk, his fingers almost burnt off, and one of his arms in some places nearly bare to the bone. Yet he neither repined or complained that his lot was harder than that of other men, but exhibited, more than any being I ever saw, an example of philssophy which is the offspring, not of reasoning, but of suffering, and of that inflexible hardihood which a long succession of labours, dangers and hardships ever inspires.

Last evening arrived at this port the schr. Transit, capt. Sloat, in 43 days from Nantz. By her the Editors of the Mercantile Advertiser have received Paris Papers to the 17th of September, and Nantz to the 18th, containing London dates to Sept. 12. They furnish very little intelligence of a generally interesting nature.

Gen. Ney, continued in the prison of Conciergerie. He was allowed the privilege of walking in the court alone at the time when the other prisoners were confined in their chambers or cells.

treaty of peace had not been concluded on the 17th Sept.

"It is thought" says the Journal de Gand, "that the negotiations of Peace will be carried on directly between the King in person and the Allied Powers, and this mode of negotiation has been determined upon in the council of ministers. Mr. Wellesley Pole insists strongly upon important concessions which for the interest of Europe, and especially of England, to exact from France."

THE PROSPECT.

WE cannot promise those epicures whose appetites have been vitiated by the high seasoned courses of battles and revolutions which have so often been served up from the European cook shops, much feasting for yet a time to come; unless indeed the winding up of affairs in France should furnish some extra dishes, or an unexpected dessert. But those who can feast on human happiness we think will daily find fresh gratification from transatlantic store-houses.—They will see that the husbandmen of nine-tenths of Europe are tilling fields in the hope to reap them:—That her artizans and manufacturers are quietly occupied in their work shops:—That her sons of science and ministers of religion are pursuing their researches and devotions undisturbed by the clamors of war:—That while the Arts & Sciences, with their great patron, Commerce and Enterprize, are showering wealth and true glory on the nations; the condition of Europeans, as citizens, is, with very few exceptions, rapidly ameliorating:—That the ruling monarchs having learnt wisdom in their intercourse with men and science; appear desirous to strengthen their monarchies by balanced representative governments; to give assurances to their subjects of the enjoyment of individual liberty; the regulated freedom of the press; the security of the right of property; the liberty of public worship, according to the dictates of their consciences; and in some instances, the trial by jury. This is no flourish of the editorial pen; we have facts which confirm us in the belief of the truth of the prospect. Surely, when such tidings can be communicated, it is to be hoped the number of those who cry "No News," will be small indeed.

SPECIE.

To convince the most incredulous advocate of the Specie speculators, whether Jew or Gentile, that we were correct in our remarks on the fall in the price of that valuable article, we will state a case that has come under our own observation.

On Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, a gentleman called at one of our Exchange Offices to sell a small amount of Gold (we believe $39.) He mentioned he wanted the value of the article, and if he should find the amount he received incorrect, he would call on them as soon as he should discover the inaccuracy.—They told him they paid him the amount according to the weight of the gold. On his enquiring if there was not a premium paid for specie, they replied they knew of no person that paid it; that the article was perfectly at a stand.

SINGULAR.

Some days ago has been discovered on the east bank of Hudson's river, about half a mile below Redhook Landing, nearly an acre of land perpendieularly sunk down from an elevation of about 100 feet above the surface of the river; to a depression of about 100 feet below the surface of the adjacent ground. It is said that the sides of the area of the vacuum are perfectly smooth, and that an entrance leads to the the bottom from a level of about 6 feet above the ordinary height of the river. The depressed earth is a solid body of blue clay, devoid of stones, and is covered with oak and cedar shrubs.—It is supposed that this singular circumstance happened during the late storm.

SINGULAR PHENOMENON.

We are informed by a gentleman from Rhode Island that immediately after the late tremendious hurricane in the Eastren States, a well, in Somerset, in county of Bristol, (Mass.) about half a mile from Taunton river, near 150 feet above the level of the river, which always had yielded pure, sweet and wholesome fresh water, was converted into a salt spring, that is, the water, in the well, which is 30 feet deep and partly blown through a solid rock, became, not merely brackish, but more salt than the ocean. The well has since been completelp emptied and washed with fresh water, but the water that runs into it continues as salt as when the change was first discovered, and will probably remain so. The well is on Mr. Samuel Gibbs' premises, and our informant has known it for several years. The cause of this Phenomenon has not yet been discovered

From the Gleaner.

Certainly the circumstance is curious that the names of the four candidates chosen for the Assembly in Allegheny county should begin with C. Their names are Courtney, Cochran, Coon and Christy.

Lancaster county sends a James, two Joels, a Jeremiah & an Emanuel—Quite a pious selection!

If Allegheny county has shewn a singular partiality for "C's," Chester county has displayed a fondness for "J's" no less remarkable. The first name of every member elected begins with that letter. There are 3 Johns, 4 Jacob, and a James.

It is said that a great head piece is elected Senator from Franklin county. Poh! Poe!—There is nothing in it.

From Lancaster county they have chosen a Smith to represent them in Senate, "a cunning workman." He is very capable of blowing up a flame among them by his eloquence, & of hammering things by his arguments into a proper shape.—But he has tough materials to work upon. From Philadelphia they have resolved to send a very orderly Sergeant to Congress, a complete disciplinarian, who understands his duty well. It is truly to be hoped that he will bring things into better order; teach the majority to change their front, and to take up a new and more eligible position.

The state Assembly will need no Didler, as Lehigh county will enable them to raise the Wind.

The effects of the late election gale have been somewhat extraordinary, as it has blown a Wind and a Storm into the legislature at Harrisburgh.

The interests of Westmoreland county in Senate, depend merely upon a Reed, not a broken one we hope. They order things better in Allegheny & Beaver, for from thence they have sent a man of Powers.

Two Sellers will be in the house; one from Bucks and the other from Montgomery. But a Sharp member from Chester, it is hoped, may prevent the Assembly from being sold. All the Buyers who were candidates have got into the Commissioner's office in Northumberland.

Whether the Franklin Smith will be able to set his shoe in the Speaker's desk, or whether Jacob, from Philadelphia county, will Hold the gate, and keep him out, cannot be known, until the wise men of Gotham shall exhibit their wise noddles at Harrisburgh.

Should the wise ones become tired before Spring, they can amuse themselves by singing "High Betty Martin", with the member from Bedford.

The Town of Peeblesburgh.

THIS TOWN, so called in memory of the late Col. Peebles, of Franklin county, has lately been laid out and established on the Farm of Robert C. Peebles, in Plumb creek township, Armstrong county. It is delightfully situated on the east bank of Crooked creek, where the great road from Boaler's to the Town of Kittaning, crosses said creek, in a thickly settled and rapid improving part of the country. The local situation is highly advantageous; about equal distant from the Towns of Indiana, Kittaning, and the Conemaugh Salt Works, and has several excellent Mills and an extensive manufactory of Salt in its immediate neighborhood. Two or three Merchants, and Mechanics of every description, would find the situation well worthy their attention.

DOCTOR CHISHOLM'S

Anti-Bilious Pills,

Of a quality superior to any thing of the kind ever offered as a GENERAL MEDICINE, in this Country.

NOW prepared from a recipe of the celebrated Dr. Chisholm, who, from a long residence in the West-India Islands, has been enabled to favor the world with the most complete history, and most approved methods of curing all the BILIOUS DISEASES of those warm climates.

This extraordinary Medicine, which now for the first time is finding its way into general practice, has properties in the highest degree superior to the mercurial nostrums so frequently recommended by the name of Anti-Bilious Pills. The extraordinary powers of this medicine as a solvent and evacuent of Bile, is without example; never producing debility or injuring the health, in the smallest degree, of the most delicate child or weakly female:

The BILIOUS HEAD-ACHE, so much complained of in this country, and in the neighbourhood of rivers, is often removed by a single dose, which, to a strong man, is only five pills, and to a weakly woman, three. The same dose will generally remove the most excruciating pains of the cholic, like a charm, by abusing the bile to pass downwards in the course of an hour or two.

Two or three Pills taken an hour before dinner, and repeated every third day, will effectually remove those diseases arising from flatulency and indigestion, and by persevering in the use of them for a considerable time, the appetite will be improved, and strength and vigor will return.

Two Pills taken at bed time, with a cup of penny-royal tea, and repeated every second night, will effectually remove Rheumatic pains wherever seated.

A single Pill, taken every fourth hour with a cup of flaxseed tea, will cure Pleurisy, promote expectoration, and relieve coughs and colds.

IN CONSUMPTIVE CASES and DISEASES OF THE LIVER, no medicine ever yet discovered, has been known to perform such cures. Two Pills taken every third morning, will be found sufficient, unless costiveness prevails; in which case the dose may be increased according to the strength or constitution.

The Dysentery, Croup, and Summer Complaint on children, are soon relieved by a few doses. A single Pill to a child of 6 years old, and the dose increased according to their strength and age.

In Asthmatic or Phthisical cases, where the laborious breathing and great oppression, with faintings, are fast sinking the patient to the brink of the grave, a few Pills, taking one every hour, with fennel or pepper-mint tea, will often enable the patient to walk about in a few hours.

The above valuable Medicine is Sold ONLY in Pittsburgh, by
J. P. & J. W. SKELTON,
at their Wholesale and Retail Apothecary and Drug Store.

DOCTOR HANDY'S

WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES,

A safe and efficacious medicine for destroying and bringing away WORMS.

MAY be used with safety by children of any age, or as common physic by the most delicate constitution, in any climate, without restraint of diet, or the smallest danger from cold. It may be given with advantage after the small-pox or measles; or as a family medicine, in any case where physic is necessary.—The most frequent seat of worms in the human body, is the intestinal tube; but occasionally they have been found in almost every other part of the body.

Some very extraordinary cases of Worms, of an unusual form and appearance, being brought away by these Lozenges, have been made public in England, where the rapid sale of the medicine has exceeded any thing of the kind ever known before; and has also proved, to a demonstration, its approved superiority, as an athelminthick, to the numerous puffed-up, useless nostrums, which are daily advertised in the newspapers.

A single dose of this valuable medicine has often been known to remove half a pot full of the Teres or Round Worms.

A few doses are generally sufficient to remove the Ascarides, a small white worm, the seat of which is either the stomach or rectum.

Even the Tape Worm, at all times the most difficult to destroy, may, by persevering in the frequent use of this medicine, be totally removed in the course of a few weeks.

To select cases, with the names of people who are not known here, and living at a great distance, would be useless, and take up too much of the readers time. We shall therefore only observe, for the benefit of those who are acquainted with the symptoms of worms, that they are known or suspected to exist by a pain in the stomach, attended with a sudden depression of spirits before eating; at other times the belly is hard, painful and distended with wind—costiveness, head ache, and trembling of the limbs, with a sense of something rising in the throat—pale complexion and emaciated body, with weakness and irregular appetite—convulsive, epileptic or falling fits—pains in the back and side, and frequent itching of the nose, and sometimes of the anus. The above and a long train of afflicting diseases may all be occasioned by worms, which are much oftener the cause of death than is commonly believed.

The above Valuable MEDICINE, is sold, ONLY, by
J. P. & J. W. Skelton,
At their WHOLESALE & RETAIL Drug Store, at the corner of Wood and Third Streets,

DOCTOR N. SMITH,

RESPECTFULLY informs the inhabitants of Pittsburgh and its vicinity, that he has been regularly licensed to practice PHYSIC AND SURGERY, and has for several years been engaged in the practice of its various branches, and therefore offers them his services, particularly in the capacity of a Dentist, hoping that his thorough knowledge of this branch of his profession, united with assiduity in business, and exertions to please, will entitle him to the patronage of the public. He cleans, repairs and extracts defective teeth, inserts new ones in such a manner and of such materials, the knowledge of which is peculiar to himself. He deems encomiums upon his performances superfluous, as he has set a number of artificial teeth since his residence in Pittsburgh, those that have scruples respecting the operator are requested to call and satisfy themselves.

The operation of inserting and cleaning is attended with little or no pain.

He also prepares the highly celebrated Osbonic Dentrifice, which will keep the teeth white and prevent the collection of Tartor.

Applications made at Dr. MORRIS PARKER'S, east side of Wood street, between Diamond Alley and Fifth streets, will be punctually attended to.
October 14, 1815.

N. B. If the expectations are not answered, pecuniary satisfaction will not be required.
